

Insights/Needs Document for Group-F
Written by James Clinton, Ishankumar Vimalkumar Patel, Kayla Dietrich

Example	Need	Insights
Grant Application	Acquire grants for funding	In order to help people, charities must have funds. Grants are a large percentage of the money charities have.
Collaboration Opportunities	Collaborate with other charities to pool resources	Collaborating with other charities makes it easier to do more good, a bigger team plus more funding. Also collaboration with for-profit can bring more money for good causes.
No Subscriptions	Free content for helping charities	So that it's accessible to everyone, SSCF seeks to help charities without charging money.
Vital Signs Reports	Vital Signs members can contribute reports to SSCF and see reports made by SSCF	Vital signs statistics can help boost the website content by trading accurate information and insights between SSCF and vital signs members. There needs to be a hub for cooperation between the two.
Low Maintenance Website	The website must be able to be hosted and maintained on limited resources	Since resources can be limited for charitable organizations, this provides insight that the website must be able to be managed by a single person. There should be as little moderation and no security.
No logins	The website must not have logins	Not at a stage where they can support it
Marketing Skills and Operations Insights	The website should be able to teach some skills to charities	The SSCF seeks to provide a platform where skills can be relevant to marketing their charity and skills to charities relevant to operations	built for charity organizations and workers. If these organizations can build skills, the SSCF believes they can do more good .

Previous Webinars and Seminars	The website should host previous webinars and seminars	If customers are unable to attend the events, they can still get the information they need. This can be useful for charity members who may be busy and have a tight schedule
Regulations	The website have pages dedicated to regulations about operations of charities	Learning about regulations can assist charities and save them time/money. If all of these regulations were located in an organized place, this could make this task much easier; thus taking some work off of the charities plate.
Webinars	For all skills, there should be a means of linking to webinars	Webinars are a way of teaching skills in an easily consumable format. This can help teach charity worker valuable skills that can help their careers, work, and by proxy those in need.
Saskatchewan Relevant	Information, regulations, and resources should be relevant to organisations in Sask.	Charities and nonprofits are looking to find things that are relevant to their location
Directory of Organisations	A place to find organizations to work with	A directory of organizations can help charities find places to help them/ work with. Not having to do research can also save charities time/money and lend them some more time to help people.
